hostess called on the gentlemen of the party for Irish stories and much merriment was evoked thereby.

Party at Mrs. Cross'.

On Saturday evening Mrs. Harry M. Cross entertained a company of young ladies at the home of Mrs. George H. Cross in honor of Miss Mabel O. Cattanauch. A delicious supper was served in the dining room where the table decorations were unusually appropriate, a mound of sweet alyssum and pink carnations surmounted by two pure white doves. During supper the guest of honor was presented with a pair of silver teaspoons by Mrs. G. H. Cross and Mrs. H. M. Cross. Afterwards 500 was played, there being four tables in play, and vocal selections by Mrs. Harry Cross were enjoyed.

Misses Grace Switzer and Anna Stevens entertained very pleasantly Thursday evening three tables of "500" at the former's home. Green and white was the color scheme in the decorations and shamrocks were in evidence everywhere, even in the delicious refreshments which were served.

The Old China Club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. M. H. Sparhawk. It was the annual meeting and the club elected Mrs. Sparhawk president. The subjects discussed were Roman and Etruscan pottery and mirrors and methods of lighting.

About 30 neighbors of Mrs. Warren Wright gave her a surprise party Thursday evening in honor of her birthday. She received several nice presents and refreshments of cake and coffee were served.

Miss Bessie Ranlet entertained a few friends informally on Thursday evening, after the lecture at the South church, in honor of her guest, Miss Emma Minard of Littleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy N. Howard very pleasantly entertained a few friends on Friday evening. Cards were played and refreshments served.

Mrs. Ellen Gile entertained the fifty club on Thursday evening at a sugar party and with various St. Patrick's Day stunts.

Mrs. A. H. Barbour very pleasantly entertained a few ladies at a thimble party on Thursday afternoon.

Reed-Conley Wedding.

On Wednesday evening at half-past eight at the home of the bride, Miss Daisy Agnes Conley, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Conley, was united in marriage with Clinton E. Reed. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. F. S. Tolman in the presence of about thirty guests. It took place in the parlor under an arch of southern smilax and white carnations from which a white dove was suspended. The room was prettily decorated with palms and ferns.

The bride who was attended by her father who gave her away, wore a white hand embroidered gown, the gift of her mother. Miss Elgie Tatt, a cousin of the bride, acted as ring-bearer. She was gowned in white. Following the wedding refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. The color scheme of pink and green was effectively carried out in the dining room which was presided over by Mrs. A. Roy Taft, an aunt of the bride, assisted by Misses Myra Walker and Laura Fenno. The wedding presents were numerous and included silver, linen, cut glass, china, furniture and money.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed are taking a short trip to Springfield, Mass., Long Island, New York City and other points after which they will be at home at 98 Portland street. The bride has been for some time in the employ of the Ranlet Press and the groom is a clerk for Lurchin and Lurchin and a well known musician. Both have many friends who extend congratulations.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Big Noise.

Imagine an immense flight of marble steps, twelve feet high, extending from the footlight to the stage, and filled with a "colossal cosmopolitan chorus clad in costly costumes," with six "live wire" end men, "generating gigantic grins, giggles and gales of glee." That would be "some" minstrel show, wouldn't it?

Following that, an original two act comic opera: written, composed, sung and acted by the very cream of our local talent.

"A comedy vehicle that will positively exceed the speed of light." That's the combination you will see when the fuse is lighted for the big noise. Rehearsals are being held each evening at the Y. M. C. A. Hall and the enthusiasm of the big chorus promises a fine performance.

Last year's show was great, but this is "a whale."—At The Colonial, two big nights, April 21 and 22.

The cottage prayermeeting will be held tonight at the home of H. W. Goodine.

John D. McAllister, while coming down from his house to the postoffice Monday morning fell on the ice and was quite badly hurt. He struck on the back of his head and fainted. He also sprained his ankle.

In the Boston Globe Thursday there appeared a picture of the Spaulding High School Basketball team of Barre. There was also an article setting forth the fact that this team is now the Champion Basketball team of Vermont. In this article the "clean cut, close, careful guarding" of Darling and Smith was praised. Both these guards, Angus Smith and Charles Brock Darling are South Ryegate boys and both are now home for the Easter vacation, wearing their laurels modestly.

The picture of Miss Lillian Eliason appeared in the Boston Globe of Monday as a member of the St. Johnsbury Academy Girls' Basketball team, which has been victor this season over several women's teams in Vermont and successful also against the Girls' team of the Littleton High School, which is one of the best girls' teams in New Hampshire.

The Barre schools closed for a two weeks' vacation Friday, and Raymond Beaton and Miss Marie Darling are at home. Miss Charlotte Crowe, who teaches in Barre, also came home Monday to spend Easter with her parents here.

Mrs. Nettie Conant of Lowell, Mass., came Monday to visit her sister, Mrs. George Brown.

James Mills of Wells River had a narrow escape from death Thursday. He came along with a two-horse team to the railroad crossing near S. Mills' blacksmith shop, just as the ten o'clock train came up. Mr. Mills is somewhat deaf and as the Tewksbury-Roben stonehead hides the track he neither saw nor heard the approaching train until it was fairly on him. His horses touched the engine and were knocked off the track. The wagon was smashed, but both horses and driver escaped injury.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Taplin and their daughter, Irene, spent Sunday in Northfield.

Entertainment a Great Success.—Seniors Go to Washington.

The entertainment given at the Academy in chapel hall Saturday evening was a great success in every way. The hall was filled to its fullest capacity, and judging by the enthusiasm of the audience, the program was most pleasing. Every number was well received. The whole affair showed not only the great ability of the students, but also the untiring efforts of the teachers who had it in charge.

The seniors, chaperoned by H. N. Wood, start for Washington next Friday morning.

Rev. B. P. Wilkins of Groveton, N. H., conducted chapel devotion and gave a brief talk Monday morning.

Miss Johnson of the faculty and Miss Isabel Follensby '11 entertained the Girls' Glee club last week Tuesday. Refreshments were served and a delightful time enjoyed by all.

Raleigh Nelson ex-'09 of Ryegate, is visiting friends in town. Miss Alwilda Wells ex-'11 of Burke, is spending a few days with Miss Mary Carr '11. Miss Dora Hastings '00 of Passumpsic, was in town, Monday.

Museum Notes.

The spring migration of birds has already begun, and the record at the Museum since February first is as follows: Tree sparrow, Feb. 7; horned lark, Feb. 10; northern shrike, Feb. 23; ruby-crowned kinglet, Mar. 3; purple finch, Mar. 9; bluebird, Mar. 12; flicker, Mar. 10; and robin, Mar. 20.

The Japanese articles which have been in two or three different places have been collected and placed at the southeast end of the balcony. The exhibit is being installed against a fabric background. This method of placing exhibits has been tried recently in several museums, notably the Peabody at Salem and the new Art Museum in Boston and has given such satisfaction that it will eventually be used for all the ethnological objects at the Museum.

John H. Moore has presented the Museum with some interesting musical scores used by the old St. Johnsbury band. Some of them are the work of John H. Paddock in 1837 and are of course in manuscript form.

John F. Puffer has loaned a most interesting subscription list which was circulated in St. Johnsbury in 1861. Its purpose was to secure funds for the equipment of parties volunteering to fight for their country's cause. The paper bears the names of most of the prominent citizens of that day. The paper has been placed in one of the table cases at the southeast end of the balcony.

ST. JOHNSBURY CENTER.

Mrs. William Beane who has been visiting relatives in the West, returned home last week.

Mrs. Dwight Simpson and daughter, Ethel, came this week from Fitchburg, Mass., to visit her sister, Mrs. A. B. Colbath, and her father, Herbert Campbell.

Everett Morse who has been sick with the measles at Arthur Chaffee's, was able to return recently to his home at Lowell, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hill entertained a few of the young married people at their home on Saturday evening. Whist was played and light refreshments served.

Mr. and Mrs. George Morrill entertained 19 of the young ladies of this place at Maple Wood farm on Saturday. After dinner they were invited to the sugar house and given new sugar.

An entertainment which includes two farces "The Peace Maker" and "The Darkey Wood Dealer" will be given at G. M. G. Hall, Tuesday evening, March 29. Maple sugar will be served.

Miss Bertha Salman goes this week to Washington, D. C.

Prentice Prescott lost one of his valuable work horses on Monday.

Mrs. P. A. Granger, who has been visiting at Johnson for sometime returned home last week.

Miss Laura Jenness was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Knoblock on Sunday.

Bernice Roundy of West Burke was the guest of Lena Hallett on Sunday. The ladies of the Congregational church are invited to meet at the vestry on Wednesday afternoon to finish the work that they have on hand.

Charles Bonnett has finished working for Bert Gregory in the meat market.

Mrs. Eliza Ranney, who is in good health, passed her 92nd birthday on Monday. She spent the day with her son, Charles Ranney, at St. Johnsbury. Her friends gave her a postal card shower and she received 75.

RECENT DEATHS.

Willard.

Mrs. Ashton R. Willard died at her home at 43 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, last week Tuesday evening in her fifty-fifth year.

This whole community was greatly shocked and saddened by this news Wednesday morning, as no one was held in greater esteem and affection, whether the friendship was an intimate one or only a passing acquaintance. Some of her friends knew that she had not enjoyed her usual good health the past winter but no one anticipated her sudden death.

Agnes Fairbanks was the second of the three daughters of Gov. Horace and Mary E. Fairbanks and was born in St. Johnsbury, Aug. 12, 1860. The foundations of a liberal education were laid in a small private school so well taught by Mrs. James K. Colby, wife of the first principal of the Academy. She was graduated from the Academy in the famous class of '78, probably the class having the highest average rank for scholarship that ever graduated from that institution. Her education was completed by a course in a private school in Boston, followed by a year in Paris where she was in the home of a former resident of this town.

On Sept. 19, 1888, she married Ashton R. Willard of Montpelier, son of the late Congressman Charles W. Willard. Since their marriage they have lived in Boston, except during protracted absences in Europe, and for the past few years they have made their summer home at Washington, where they have been cordially welcomed by a host of their St. Johnsbury friends. Besides her husband she leaves one child, Theodora, in her thirteenth year. Another daughter, Isabel Fairbanks, died in infancy in 1894.

The funeral was held at Pinehurst, Thursday afternoon. A beautiful tribute in which scriptural and poetic quotations were combined was paid by her cousin, Rev. Edward T. Fairbanks, and the prayer was offered by her pastor, Rev. George W. C. Hill. The interment was in Mt. Pleasant cemetery, the bearers being Rev. Edward T. Fairbanks, Arthur P. Stone, Dr. Arthur Fairbanks of Boston, Joseph Fairbanks, Frank H. Brooks and Chauncey A. Adams of Irasburgh.

Rarely, if ever, has this town mourned the loss of a resident of another state whose life was so inseparably connected with its interests and institutions. Joining the North Congregational church in 1872 her love for the church was unfeigned and she was an eager sharer in the support of its benevolent work. As a member of the board of trustees of the Athenaeum, founded by her father, she gave unstintingly of her time and her money to this institution. She thus became deeply interested in the wider work of our libraries and only last summer attended the great gathering of the American Library Association at Bretton Woods that she might be of still greater usefulness to the library which was so near her heart. But her interest in our institutions was not confined to the Athenaeum for, it will be recalled, she gave the money to buy the slightly lot on which Brightlook Hospital is located, and she was always ready and willing to contribute to any institution or cause that would help the social uplift in the town she loved so well.

She was the flower of a distinguished family, inheriting the fine traits of character that made her father and mother so beloved by all, and the loss to this town is irreparable. Those who have shared her unbounded hospitality in her Boston or St. Johnsbury home recall with keen pleasure her queenly and gracious presence as hostess, while her wide culture made her a brilliant conversationalist in any circle. To a generous nature was added a sweetness of character, combined with great strength and depth, giving her a poise that was the admiration of all. Possessed of a wide acquaintance there are many who will treasure most precious memories of her personal friendship that was as genuine as it was pure.

Mrs. John Smith.

She died at Brightlook Hospital, St. Johnsbury, Monday evening, March 14, a woman of sturdy Scotch descent, a woman of character, that kind of character which has made an impress on the affairs of our state, and helped to make Vermont what it is today, an honor to our nation.

Mrs. Abby Henderson Stuart Smith was born in West Barnet in 1843, in the ancestral home which has been in the Stuart name for over a century, and there she was taken ill while called to attend her brother William's funeral. On the 14th of March she was taken to Brightlook Hospital where everything possible was done to relieve her sufferings. Death came after an illness of only a week's duration.

In 1891, she became the wife of John Smith, a prosperous and influential business man of Newbury, and for nearly 20 years was his faithful and helpful wife. A woman who identified herself with the interests of her adopted town. Faithfulness and helpfulness are the two words which especially come to mind if we must try to put into words the qualities which predominated her character. It was part of her nature unostentatiously to try to do what was right. She was faithful in her work, faithful to her friends, faithful to herself and her ideals.

She pursued her course with such quietness, that she won for herself a circle of friends such as is one of the richest possessions which a human soul can have.

Her funeral took place Wednesday at the Congregational church, Newbury, and was largely attended. Rev. Charles H. Shank officiated. The interment was at West Newbury. She leaves a husband, one sister and a brother, George Stuart of St. Johnsbury.

Batchelder.

Mrs. D. W. Batchelder, a former resident of this place, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Albert Palmateer, in Auburndale, Mass., Thursday. Although she had been in poor health for a number of years she had been seriously sick only about two weeks, heart trouble being the cause of her death. Funeral services were held at Auburndale Saturday, and the remains were brought here for burial, Sunday. The committal service was conducted at the tomb by her former pastor, Rev. Dr. Edward T. Fairbanks. Mary J. Squiers was born in Sherbrooke about 67 years ago, and about 43 years ago was married there to D. W. Batchelder. After coming to the states they lived in Danville for some time but resided here for a long time. About three years ago Mrs. Batchelder went to Auburndale, where she has since lived. She is survived by one daughter, one son, S. C. Batchelder of Boston, and six grandchildren; also one sister, Mrs. Charles Moyle of Island Pond. Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Batchelder accompanied the remains here and they were met at the station by a large delegation from the Eastern Star, who also sent a beautiful floral tribute.

Hagan.

James Hagan died at the home of his son on Concord avenue Saturday morning at the age of 78. He was born in St. Sylvester, Canada, but came to this country when a young man and enlisted in Co. F, 2nd New Hampshire regiment. He served three years and in the battle of Gettysburg was injured by a bursting shell. This injury to his head caused lifelong eyesight and his final illness of but 24 hours was attributed to it. Mr. Hagan was a resident of Lunenburg for 32 years and came here last fall with his sons to make his home. He leaves four sons, James and John Hagan of this place, Frank Hagan of Lunenburg, and George Hagan, a student at St. Michael's College, Winooski; two daughters, Sister Beatrice, a nun, of Burlington, and Mrs. Sarah Powell of Lunenburg. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Etta F. Cushman, of Dalton, N. H. The funeral was held at St. Aloysius church yesterday morning and he was taken to Lancaster, N. H., for burial.

Smith.

The remains of Charles Nathan Smith, a former resident of this place, were brought here for burial last week Tuesday. Mr. Smith died very suddenly at the home of his son, Harry B. Smith, in Chester, the Sunday previous, as he was about the house the day before his death. He had been a sufferer from heart trouble and neuralgia for some time. Previous to his residence in St. Johnsbury he lived in Lunenburg and while here he was employed by E. & T. Fairbanks & Co., and also conducted a blacksmith shop for a time. About 12 years ago he went to live with his son in Chester. He is survived by only this son, another son, George Smith, having died while their home was here. Committal service was read at the tomb by Rev. F. S. Tolman and the bearers were H. E. Byron, Harry B. Smith, E. E. Carr, and John Brown.

At St. Agnes Hall.

Le Cercle Dramatique et Musical Francais will present on Monday and Tuesday evenings at St. Agnes Hall the famous comedy "Yvonne." The drama has been faithfully rehearsed and will be well worth seeing. The cast:

Madame de Moutoude, mother of Maurice, Miss Valeda Chesnez

Madame Christine de Vienne, her daughter, Miss Rosanna Boucher

Amelie, daughter of Madame de Vienne, Miss Regina Demers

Yvonne, another daughter, Miss Agnes Benoit

Colette, a friend of the two daughters and a great painter, Miss Marian Gagnon

Victoire, a maid of honor, Miss Crazziella Dutille

Rose, an adopted daughter, Miss Marie Henault

Desiree, a real maid of Normandy, Miss Diana Barril

On Tuesday night Jeanne d'Arc a Rouen will be personified both in jail and at the stake. Arrangements have been made with Fred Marcotte and a Boston firm to furnish different moving pictures both evenings. Music will be furnished by Harmony Band and its orchestra of 28 pieces.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The campers' reunion held at Burlington, Friday and Saturday last, was a great success, over 60 boys being present. The camp supper prepared by Cook Lapiere was much enjoyed by the boys. The illustrated lecture on "Camp Life" by Mr. Clark was most interesting, and nearly all the campers could find themselves pictured on the large canvas in many of the groups that were thrown upon the screen. After the lecture the boys gathered around the open fire and a regular camp service was held and the bright singing and the talk by Rev. Mr. Berry of Richford, was much enjoyed. Saturday morning the boys formed a basket ball league and a number of exciting games were played. In the afternoon different groups visited the Medical College, Fort Ethan Allen, and other places of interest. A number also were taken out ice boating by one of the Burlington boys and enjoyed their speedy trips far up and down Lake Champlain. A strong wind was blowing and the boats at times traveled at a rate of over 60 miles an hour. On their return to shore the boys declared that ice boating was the greatest of winter sports and they had had the most exciting time of their lives. The campers left Burlington at the homes in St. Albans, Richford, and Montpelier, Saturday evening.

School Notes.

Miss Mabel H. Drake of Tilton, N. H., has accepted a position as teacher in the Fairbanks village school, to begin her work next term. Miss Drake is a graduate of Tilton Seminary and formerly a student at the Erie Pape Art school in Boston. She visited her aunt, Miss Any B. Drake, last week.

All the public schools will close Friday, the 25th. All will have a week's vacation except the three lowest grades at Summer street which will have two.

Charles Ross explained the intricacies of Vermont taxation to the pupils of Miss Drake's room, Thursday.

Mrs. Lydia Beck will spend her vacation at Manchester, N. H., and Lawrence, Mass.; Miss Eva Wilde at Cambridge, Mass.; Miss Grace Barney at South Barre; Miss Maude Harding at Meredith, N. H.; Miss Edith Nichols at Baldwinville, Mass.; Miss Emma Sanborn at Bradford; Miss Mabel Clark at Middlesex; Miss Amy Drake at Bristol; Miss Ruby Smith at Colebrook, N. H.; Miss Gertrude Seavey at Claremont, N. H.; Miss May Kennedy at Milton; Miss Bernice Pierce at Amesbury, Mass., and Miss Kate Peck at Boston.

On Friday afternoon the 9th Grade Union school debated the question of the wisdom of having added the 15th Amendment to the Constitution immediately following the liberation of the negro. The affirmative side was led by Irving Eastman and Irma Clair; the negative by Mabel Houghton and Earl Thurston. The judges, Mrs. Robert Mackinnon, Miss Wakefield and Mrs. J. M. Cady, decided in favor of the affirmative. This grade has challenged the 9th Grade, Summerville, to a public joint debate that will be held early next term.

At the Summerville school on March 15 Grades 4-9 inclusive indulged in a penmanship contest. All the penmanship lessons given by Mr. Barbour during this year in Summerville have been given between four and five o'clock, yet the children have been so interested in the work they have enjoyed staying. Following are the prize winners:

Grade IX, Maurice S. Gray; Honorable Mention, Frederica E. Gibson.

Grade VIII, Clara S. Daniels; Honorable Mention, Albina M. Costa and R. Angelena Moore.

Grade VII, Ethel M. Knight; Honorable Mention, Florence I. Perry.
